FALL WEATHER AT ATLANTIC CITY FAILS TO DRIVE CROWDS FROM THE RESORT.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 19.—Fall weather dropped on the resort during the last part of the week, and many of those who are unused to the quick changes that sometimes occur in this climate believed that winter had come. The weather sharks have prophesied that there is another warm wave on its way, and that it will strike here tomorrow or Monday.

The crowds seem to linger in spite of the cool spell, which made it necessary to shake straw hats and hunt wraps for evening wear. There is every prospect that the fall business of this year will be far in advance of that of previous years.

Many people who have heretofore spent the late fall and early winter in the South, have made arrangements to stay in Atlantic City this year. The weather here is all that could be desired in fall. A greater number of hotels than usual will remain open.

J. O. Witz, prominently known in business circles of Staunton, Virginia, motored to the shore with a party of friends, and joined Mrs. Witz, who is staying at the Hotel Strand.

Mr. John Daly, who is enjoying a month's vacation is registered at the Hotel Chetwood. He is accompanied by his sister, Miss May Daly, of Washington.

Miss Isabel M. Hart, a charming belle from the Capital City, is at the Willshire Hotel for a two weeks' stay.

Assistant District Attorney Ralph Given, accompanied by Mrs. Given and master harvey given, of Washington, are spending several days at the majestic Hotel.

Miss Virginia Lawrence, of Washington, is a charming visitor at the Albernath Hotel.

Miss Isabelle Quentin, of Washington, D. C., is among the recent arrivals at the Hotel Ostend.

Isaac Foster, of Washington, is among the notable arrivals at the Hotel Princess.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scott, of Washington, D. C., are guests at the Grand Atlantic Hotel for a few weeks.

Mrs. William A. Haley, after spending part of the summer here, has returned to her home in Washington. Mrs. Haley is the wife of the popular bandmaster of the steel pier.

Maurice Baer, a prominent club man, of Washington, D. C., with a party of friends, are enjoying seashore life stopping at the Raleigh Hotel.

Mrs. J. Lully, a charming society matron, of the Capital City, is a visitor at Halycon Hall for an extensive stay.

Charles J. Walker, a prominent lumber magnate of Washington, accompanied by Mrs. Walker and their son, the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Bankard left for their future home in Harrisburg, Pa., where Mr. Bankard is a prominent young business man.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews to Dr. F. P. Morgan. The ceremony was performed Friday, September 18, by the Rev. Samuel H. Woodrow, pastor of the First Congregational Church, in the presence of immediate relatives only.

Miss Hattie E. Mattern and Charles C. Ball were married Thursday evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mattern, 1812 G street southeast, the Rev. E. Thompson officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a handsome gown of ivory satin, made empire, and a long tulle veil caught with a wreath of lilies of the valley. The bridal bouquet was a shower of bride roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Dorothy Mattern was maid of honor, and H. E. Ball was best man for his brother. The maid of honor wore a dainty gown of white mull and carried Bridesmaid roses and ferns.

An informal reception for the wedding party followed the ceremony and later in the evening Mr. Ball and his bride left Washington for a wedding trip North.

The marriage of Miss Edna M. Thompson and Michael Nebel, of this city, took place Tuesday evening in the rectory of St. Paul's Church at Rock Creek, the Rev. C. E. Buck officiating.

The marriage of Miss Edna Bernice Moody, of Rixford, Pa., and Roy C. Clavin, of this city, took place in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Rixford, Pa., Wednesday evening, the Rev. D. W. Manning officiating.

Miss Moody, who wore a becoming gown of cream peau de cygne, trimmed with baby Irish lace, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and forget-me-nots, was given in marriage by her mother. She was attended by Miss Maud Wrench, of Bound Brook, N. J., as maid of honor, who wore a dainty frock of pink messaline satin and carried pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Harriet Clavin, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Florence Moody, sister of the bride; Miss Marion Colcord, Miss Edna Angvine, and Miss Mildred Rees.

Warren Wagner, of Washington, was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. Colcord, Mr. Angvine, Mr. Peet, Mr. Moffitt, and Frank Moffitt.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred the Moody, after the ceremony. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Clavin left for a wedding trip, which will terminate in Washington, where they will be at home at 323 Warder street northwest after October 15.

Miss May C. McNamara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McNamara, and J. Philip Hayden were married Tuesday morning in St. Dominic's Catholic Church, the Rev. R. A. La Plante officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Agnes O'Donnell as maid of honor, and Frank McNamara, brother of the bride, acted as best man for Mr. Hayden.

After an informal reception for the wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden left for a wedding trip North, returning to Washington about September 25.

NEW YORK'S SMART SET IS RUNNING TO HORSES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Meadow Brook and Morristown will be the principal centers of the social activities of the Four Hundred during the coming week, in connection with the annual open-air horse shows opening at Mineola and Morristown on Thursday next. The Mineola exhibition will constitute the occasion of the first rendezvous of the fall season for that particular element of our fashionable world which is popularly known as the Meadow Brook Set. The latter is by no means those new people who aim at making their way into the inner circles of New York society by way of Meadow Brook and its hunting field.

Out on Long Island, as in England, hunting for many years past has provided an effective passport to men and women imbued with social aspirations. If a man, or even a couple, secure a pretty place in a hunting district, own a good string of horses, ride well and boldly to hounds, carefully observing all the many ethics of the hunting field, the people with whom they will be brought into contact there will feel kindly toward them, refrain from inquiring too carefully into their antecedents, and close their eyes indulgently to shortcomings of one kind and another.

So well is this known that just in the same way when in England people want to get into society they take a place at Melton Mowbray, go in for hunting, joining one or another of the smart hunts, so do folks here in New York when they desire to get into the "four hundred," lease or buy a country seat on Long Island, and join the Meadow Brook Hunt. It is true that the Meadow Brook Club has the reputation of being very exclusive. But it certainly never has shown itself so in the case of social neophytes of the type that I have just described, particularly if they know how to play polo and are hospitable.

Among the best-known members of the Meadow Brook colony are the Clarance Mackays, who have one of the most luxurious and beautiful places on the island, at Harbor Hill, near Roslyn, where they dispense hospitality all the year round. True, neither of them hunts. But Clarence Mackay races and plays polo, and living there virtually from one year's end to the other, he and his wife exercise in many particulars the authority, and enjoy the prestige of the lord and lady of the manor. Then there is August Belmont, with his married son and popular daughter-in-law and his younger boys.

He usually gives a dance at his place on the eve of the opening of the spring and fall racing season at Belmont Park. There are also Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Havemeyer, who have a villa at Hempstead, surrounded by magnificent old trees that give a sense of rest and comfort. Mrs. Havemeyer was Miss Sands, of New York, and her sister, Anna Sands, one of the most conspicuous and ubiquitous figures in society, has been a constant aid in the cure of "The Maid of the Hills."

Mrs. Whitney, who was Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, and who is the eldest sister of Cornelius, Alfred, and Reggie Vanderbilt, is one of the most gifted women of our fashionable world, and without neglecting her social obligations or her maternal duties, manages to put in so much of her time in hard work in her studio with her chisel, as to relieve herself of all imputation of being one of those drones that, according to popular writers, consume the industry of the smart hunts, so do folks here in New York when they desire to get into the "four hundred," lease or buy a country seat on Long Island, and join the Meadow Brook Hunt. It is true that the Meadow Brook Club has the reputation of being very exclusive. But it certainly never has shown itself so in the case of social neophytes of the

Philadelphia's Premier Beauty

This young lady, the exquisite beauty of whose complexion has aroused the greatest admiration amongst the members of Philadelphia's fashionable younger set, recently confided to a few girl friends the secret of her extraordinary facial loveliness. The secret could not remain long, and gossip in society circles tells us that this young woman had been greatly annoyed by many dark brown freckles, which obstinately defied removal until she became a user of Nadinola Facial Cream. With its aid, however, she not only quickly and easily banished these unsightly blemishes, but was also rejoiced to find her skin left in every way more beautiful than before—healthy, clear, soft, and velvety, with all the freshest and exquisite loveliness of a perfect complexion. Nadinola Cream is sold in every high-class drug store, 50c and $1 the package.

Sold by Peoples Pharmacy, O'Donnell, Henry Evans, Thompson, and other druggists.
